I find it a rather sad state of affairs when States are going to profit from the supposed harm of having microsofts Internet Explorer preinstalled on computers, which is now part of it's operating system. It's also very sad that the people supposedly harmed by this(the computer user) are not going to get any of the money. I urge you to stop the witch-hunt.

Tax paying Citizen who would like to see states MEET their budget without ripping microsoft off.
